CONTEXT

The war in Ukraine is causing negative effects on economic growth in the Baltic Sea region, and across the whole of Europe.

Growing price pressures, especially higher energy prices, disruptions in supply chains, general uncertainty over the impact and outcome of the war, as well as, sanctions imposed on Russia and Belarus, will inevitably weaken consumer confidence, affect investment decisions, and create supply and demand shocks.

EU regions need to stay resilient in the face of pandemic, geopolitical or any other crisis. They need to be able to compete with other more advanced and emerging economies in a dynamic economic and social environment.

Location matters, particularly for clusters. They develop more easily in urban and regional ecosystems with a favorable administrative and regulatory environment and access to skilled labor, markets, financial and business support services.

INTEGRATION OF CLUSTERS IN ECONOMIC GOVERNANCE, POLICY DESIGN AND IMPLEMENTATION AT THE REGIONAL LEVEL IS ESSENTIAL

Regional authorities need to know their clusters and understand how they can shape, improve and effectively help in the design and the implementation of regional development policies.

Cluster organisations and their members should take actions and implement projects that are relevant for the economic development of their local communities. They should engage in collaboration with other European clusters in the same or related economic activities and thus complement regional assets and reinforce capacities to lead green transition, accelerate digital transition and build resilience.

This event is one of the 15 “Clusters meet Regions” regional workshops that are being organised in EU regions in 2022-2023. Organisations around the EU are invited to express their interest in hosting these events. The workshops will bring together clusters and policymakers of the EU, national, regional and local level to learn from each other how to better use clusters to strengthen industrial ecosystems, serve national/regional economic development and liaise with other regions with similar transition challenges. Further workshops in this series can continue to focus on supply disruptions caused by the war.
